

FaithQuest Missions

The heart and purpose of FaithQuest Missions is to mobilize the church to “faith-in-action” kingdom purposes. Led by John and Lori Gash and Carlos and Lisa Sales, they seek to build bridges of love and connection between churches within the United States and front-line missionaries and their organizations in areas of greatest need in the world.

Short-term mission trips are a key method of connecting people and building relationships across the waters, so FaithQuest actively organizes and hosts vision and serving trips to get these relationships started. They vigorously recruit, train and send those who answer the call of the Lord, with their own “Here am I, send me!” The result is often a transformational change that only God could have performed in individuals and their churches, as well as in the villages and communities overseas where God has led them.

FaithQuest Missions provides leadership and general administrative and marketing/communications support to Y-Malawi, as well as coordination of vision trips, fund raisers, training, and church relations activities. Together with other leaders, John and Carlos are enthusiastic about expanding Y-Malawi into more of Africa through Y-Africa, Y-Malawi’s parent organization.

Support for FaithQuest Missions

FaithQuest Missions is a faith-based ministry and does not receive compensation from Y-Malawi. Instead they depend on gifts from supporters like you. Your gifts of support will help to continue their role in leading Y-Malawi and advancing its influence with more churches in the US and more nations in Africa.

“Lori and I feel so privileged to have a part in seeing God work in and through this loving community of churches called Y-Malawi. We anticipate amazing things to come over the next few years as the church continues to catch a glimpse of what real community is all about!”
